I'm standing for election to the Labour Party London Regional Committee – alongside Emine Ibrahim - on the basis of my record of activity in both my union and the Labour Party.

I've consistently campaigned for democratic reform with the aim of ensuring representatives are accountable and to maximise membership involvement and influence over decision-making – including encouraging people to stand as candidates and ensuring selection processes are applied fairly.

The role of the Regional Executive is to carry out the decisions taken by the London Labour conference – both in terms of policies and campaigns. There is an urgent need to take forward a socialist alternative to the multiple problems facing Londoners:

- unaffordable housing
- increasingly scarce well paid and secure jobs
- declining public services
- the looming environmental catastrophe
- continuing inequality

As a former London Regional Secretary of the PCS trade union, I have valuable experience of organising campaigning activity – and I worked with sister unions as the Secretary of the Regional TUC's Public Services Committee.

I want to strengthen the links between London CLPs and the unions. Imagine the impact of organising speaking tours of London CLPs and organising fundraisers in support of striking workers.

I am currently CLP Secretary – and have used my experience in setting up union Youth and Disabled Members Forums to organise local campaigns against harassment and abuse based on ethnicity and gender.

I'm not intimidated by "authority" - having represented union members in meetings with Cabinet Ministers and London Mayors. I'm a team player who will play a full part in ensuring socialist ideas and campaigns are taken forward collectively.
