

14.03.2018

Online Voting for Parliamentary Selections

As part of its review of its procedures and structures, the Labour Party should consider implementing online voting for members in Parliamentary selections. Currently, members can only vote in parliamentary selections by attending meetings or through postal votes, leading to depressed turnouts and low levels of engagement. If we are to enthuse new members, we need to ensure that processes for selecting parliamentary candidates are inclusive as possible, and online voting would be helpful in that respect.