Seeking your CLP's nomination for the London Regional Board.

In 2015 I was motivated to re-join the Labour party to support Jeremy Corbyn win the leadership election. Through his leadership, democratic involvement of the members and listening to what people need, Labour has delivered a socialist manifesto that will finally help to re-address the inequalities we see every day. Years of austerity has seen the erosion of vital services and support for our communities. We desperately need to see a greater investment in our economy in order to deliver policies that will positively change the lives for the many, only a Labour government will do this.

Since rejoining I have been very involved with the local CLP. I held the position of Agent for GE 2017 and LE 2018 and have recently been voted to be a member of the LCF. In 2018, I was selected to run as a council candidate in Heathfield, and helped drive and shape a campaign that beat the Tories into third place and created the largest swing to Labour in the borough (this was achieved with just under a year of campaigning!).

I was born and brought up in South West London and have seen a considerable change to the demographics over the years and I feel the regional board needs to be more representative and reflective of this.

If elected to the London Regional Board, my main objective will be to make it as easy as possible for party members to engage with its activities, by sharing the agenda and reports of upcoming board meetings and inviting feedback from members on issues of concern to them by consulting widely with party members in my region. To enable this to happen I will request time to report back in person at my own local party meetings and request to visit other CLPs in my sub-region. Decisions I take on the London Regional Board will be influenced by my socialist values and collective good of the party making it as open and active as possible.
